

BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Ruth Martens received a Bachelor of Arts from Northwestern University and continued on to the Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Sciences/The Chicago Medical School where she earned her M.D. After internship and residency at St. Frances Hospital in Evanston, Illinois, she opened her practice in homeopathy in 1983. Dr. Martens has studied homeopathy internationally with homeopathic masters George Vithoukas, M.H. and Alfons Geukens, M.D. since 1981. She obtained the Diplomate in Homeotherapeutics in 1988 and is past President of the American Board of Homeotherapeutics. Dr. Martens was a member of the Executive Board of the American Institute of Homeopathy for over 10 years. Currently she is the Assistant Editor of the American Journal of Homeopathic Medicine and Treasurer of the American Foundation for Homeopathy. Dr. Martens has taught homeopathy to professionals across the country and has lectured on homeopathy to both professional audiences and to the general public. Currently, she practices family medicine specializing in Classical Homeopathy and Nutrition in Wheaton, Illinois.